The Grand Palace is a must see for every visitor to Bangkok. Located close to the banks of the Chao Phraya River (The River of Kings) the Grand Palace is the perfect example of an ancient Siamese court. Within the compound is the Temple of The Emerald Buddha (Wat Pra Kaew), which houses Thailand most precious image of the Lord Buddha. The Emerald Buddha is believed to have supernatural powers and is dressed in robes according to the season by the King of Thailand himself.

Next stop is Wat (temple) Pho. Wat Pho houses 46 meters long reclining Buddha. The temple is considered the earliest center for public education in Thailand.

Stop for lunch at Thai restaurant

Travel on the Chao Phraya River (The River of Kings) and on through the Klongs (canals) of Thonburi. DAY 04: Wed - Feb 19, 2025 - Full Day Bangkok Tour

Breakfast at hotel.

Time: 07.00-17.00

Depart early morning for the two-hour drive to the Damnoen Saduak Floating Market. En route first visit at Maeklong Railway Market, the name says it all: it is a market which has a train running right through the middle of it. The market offers everything you expect a Thai market to offer but the Maeklong Railway Market differentiates itself from the other markets by having a railway located in the middle. If the products for sale are not placed on the railway itself, they are placed really closed to it. Every time the train is about to drive through, the vendors recognize the warning bell, they immediately jump out of their chairs to pull back their awnings and when needed their products as well so the train will not hit the vendors' belongings. Tourists and the vendors gather very close, but far enough, along the railway to let the train pass by safely. For many tourists this is the moment to take a video or a picture of this impressive moment.

Right after the train has passed the stands, the vendors immediately place their belongings back at the railway and it looks like nothing has happened. We continue drive to Damnoen Saduak Floating Market, to see the traditional way of selling and buying goods in Thailand.

Lunch at local restaurant, visit Baan Bang Phlap, the farming community provides visitors with a chance to experience another aspect of Thai culture and a more traditional way of life. Unwind in the Thai countryside and ease into the slow life as you cycle along country lanes and walk through fruit orchards.
